Charcoal sweeters the breath after smoking, drinking or after eating onions and other odorous vegetables.

Larcoal effectually clears and improves to complexion, it whitens the teeth and in the racts are a natural and embiently side cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of cature.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but probably the best charcoal and the most for the money is in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges; they are composed of the finest powdered Willow charcoal, and other harmless antiseptics in tablet form, or rather in the form of large, pleasant-tasting lozenges, the charcoal being mixed with honey.

The daily use of these lozenges will soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and purer blood, and the beauty of its that no possible harm can result from their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

their continued use, but, on the contrary, great benefit.

A Buffalo physician, in speaking of the benefits of charcoal, says: "I advise Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges to all patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat; I also believe the liver is greatly benefited by the daily use of them. They cost but twenty-five cents a box at drug stores, and although in some sense, a patent preparation, yet I believe I get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges than in, any of the ordinary charcoal tablets."

HARCOURT'S FIGHT

Distinguished Liberal Leader House of Commons Found Dead in Bed.

THRICE DECLINED PEERAGE.

English Politics Will Lose Much of Their Sting in the Absence of "the Finest Gladiator of His Age."

London, Oct. 1.-Sir William Vernon Harcourt, "the finest political gladiator of his age." died suddenly to-day at Nuneham Park, near Oxford, the country seat which he recently inherited from his nephew. Only his wife, a daughter of the late John Lothrop Motley, the historian and former American Minister to Great Britain, was

When Sir William went to bed last night he seemed.fajriy well, though he had been suffering from a slight chill. This morn-ing when called he replied cheerily: "In ort time." Later a servant entered the s short time." Later a servant entered the room and found Sir William lying dead on his bed.

Although Sir William had been in poor health, for some days, his death came quite unexpectedly at his home. His son, Lewis Vernon Harcourt, was in London and was only informed during the night that his father thad been selzed with a sudden illness, and left for Nuneham early this, morning.

How self-sacrincing: How unexpected like. "My election law went into effect. All systems of the effect and before it had its first trial. There had been revious frauds, detections."

An underlying note in the columns of oblinary that appears is keen regret at the disappearance? of such a strenuous type as Harcourt from the ranks of both parties. He was the foremost Liberal leader, This "swashbuckler," as his opnts used to call him in his lifetime upheld even in the midst of the re was upheld even in the midst of the recent political strife over free trade as the type of man who knows his own mind and was not afraid to fight for it.

His sledge-hammer arguments, his leagthy letters to the London Times, under the pen name of "Historicus"—one of his letters occupied eight columns—and his whole demeanor, which, he was proud to say himself, was that of the Eighteenth rather than of the Nineteenth Century, all combined to make him not only a forceful, but a picturesque figure.

English politics, as one paper says, will now lose something of their sting. But those intimate with the inner feelings of the members of the House of Commons know that the gap in the front bench, where the huge figure of Sir William had long grown to be a familiar sight, will be uncommonly hard to fill.

Not since Lord Salisbury died, and scancely, then, for the late Premier had few personal friends, has the death of any statesman created so much genuine feeling at the headquarters of both parties. The National Liberal Club immediately half-masted its fing and sent a message of sympethy to Lardy Harcourt. The other club followed-guit.

. DECLINED PEERAGE. It was stated only a few weeks ago that King Edward had urged Harcourt once again, for Sir William twice refused a peerage, to accept some mark of distinction upon the close of his active career.

tion upon the close of his active career. In his last speech, delivered at the National Liberal Club, July 28, Sir William said, somewhat pathetically:

"It is not because I am weary of the fight or am lukewarm in the cause that I futend to retire. It is because I do not think it to the public advantage that the people should attempt to fulfill duties that they are unable to perform."

Yet even during the last session of Parliament, subsequent to announcement that he was notionger able to perform his duties, Harcourt attacked Joseph Chumberlain's finance proposals in a lengthy speech, delivered in that Homeric, siashing style so familiar for many a year to all those connected with British politics.

HAPPIEST MAN IN UNCLE . SAM'S NAVY.

"I am the happiest man in Uncle Sam's Kesy. I must have got the piles from always sitting on the guns, for I have to get on them to clean them, as I am first-class gunner's mate in the after turret.

"I could not do any work when I had the piles, my shipmates did it for me. I certainly was in a bad condition; to-day there is no man aboard the ship in better condition than I am, and I can certainly thank Pyramid Pile Cure for the world of good it has done ma. I used so many different modicines and spent lots of money until I used this remedy; it is the only one of the whole lot that did me any good.

"The first box nearly cured me, and I don't think I ever felt happier in my life, that I thought I got the real stuff at last. To make sure of a cure I used a number of boxes, also two boxes of Pyramid Pilis and one and one-half boxes of Pyramid Ontment, and I still have four boxes of Pyramid Pile Cure left, that I keep in case I meet anyone that is a sufferer of piles. I thank Pyramid Pile Cure a milion times." Julius A Koester, U. S. Flagship Kenrarge.

piles. I thank Pyramid Pile Cure a miltion times." Julius A. Koester, U. S. Flagship Kearsarge.

The wonderful cures effected by this remedy are subject for remark among members of the medical profession everywhere. A little book describing the causes and cure of piles is published by the Pyramid Drug Company, Marshall, Mich., and we advise every sufferer to write for it. It is a singular fact that one out of everyfour suffers from this distressing complaint, and another peculiar feature is that it is no respecter of persons, attacking both those of high and of low degree, the laborer and the millionaire, the scrubweman and the lady of fashion. We have plassure in recommending Pyramid Pile Cure to all such; as it possesses merit, and since it is sold by all druggists generally for the low price of fifty cents a package, we prompt and speedy cure is easily rithin the reach of everyone.

FILLEY REVIEWS

'The Old Man" Tells of the Fraudulent Spring Primaries of 1896.

SQUARE ELECTIONS FOUGHT.

Charges That the Republicans Have a Bad Record and Are Afraid of Exposure Which Might "Hurt the Party."

At the meeting of the Good Government Republican Roosevelt Club Thursday night Chauncey I. Filley again called at tention to the remarkable record of the Republicans in refusing to probe election frauds in primaries and general elections. He told how Charles D. Comfort, one of the chief advisers of C. P. Walbridge, took twenty-eight poll books from the office of the Board of Election Commis-sions, from which to make slips for use in the spring primary of 1896, for use in the fight which the then Mayor Walbridge was making for gubernatorial delegate in the State Convention, Mr. Filley will continue his revelations next Thursday night at the Eugenia street clubhouse. Mr. Filley said, in part, in his speech:

'The inciplency of the present trouble with Republican primaries and elections arose after years of effort and final suc cess in securing the passage of my elec-tion law in 1885, through the appointment of Mayor Walbridge of an Election Commissioner, whom the law provided should be of opposite politics to the two that the Governor appointed.

"The two appointed by the Governor were Democrats, and so was the one appointed by Mayor Walbridge, according to his own confession to McCullagh, of the Globe-Democrat, and as charged immediately after his appointment on September 3, 1985, by Ben F. Russell, that he voted for the straight Democratic ticket in 1833 except for Walbridge for Mayor. To McCullagh he admitted that he voted for Cleveland in 1892.

"I have related to, you how his chief manager, Comfort, within a few weeks after his inauguration, approached and proposed to me to be a party with him in catching everything a-gold and a-comin," during the Walbridge administration and particularly for his gubernatorial aspirations.

BEE IN HIS BONNET. of Mayor Walbridge of an Election Com-

BEE IN HIS BONNET.

"So you see that that bee was in his bonnet in 1893, and Comfort flattered him with being 'the man of destiny.' During all of the intervening time that bee has been buzzing, so that any assumed surprise meantime and bowing to the demand of the people is all hypocritical bosh. There has been no demand for his nomination in St. Louis, as you all know. And his candidacy has been worked up and capsheaved by the July 6 purchase for $1.500 of the City Committee, conditioned on Walbridge delegations throughout the city. Of course, he was an innocent lamb in the matter, though the visiting committee and high contractors held nis check for $250 that night. Then the next day, with simulated surprise and such unlooked-for confidence and indorsement, he issued his great state paper of consent, if nominated, of acceptance. What a pretty play! How self-sacrificing! How 'unexpected-like.' with being 'the man of destiny.' During party for fraud after my law went into effect, and before it had its first trial. There had been previous frauds, detections, trials and convictions, with less brass-banding and the effort to prevent frauds before committal and if committed, then the evidence secured, collated and turned over to the prosecuting officials. The opportunities had been greater under one Recorder of Voter's system than under three Election Commissioners, one to be of opposite politics and supposed to sid in the prevention of fraud instead of inciting and alding it, and to represent Republican purity and interests. Did William Flewellyn Saunders represent Republican purity and interests. Did he—the Election Commissioner appointed by Mayor Walbridge? At any rate, there is where the first election frauds started after my new election law.

LITTLE DEMAND FOR DETECTION.

"Has there been any great demand in

"Has there been any great demand in the last seven years for the detection, prosecution and conviction of primary rauds, and when it is well known that during that time the Republican primary trauds, and when it is well known that during that time the Republican primary frauds have been so flagrant, and as in September. 1992, the worst admittedly known? Why is it that the cry went out from the Republican managers and advisers, 'don't contest; it will hurt the party?' Why was it that the present head of the committee selected by the State chairman, at a meeting of the St. Louis Republican (Tub, April 9, 1992, said:

"Judge Fisse attacked Circuit Attorney Folk, basing his remarks on the bribery prosecutions. He said that the only persons convicted of crimes against the ballot were Republicans.'

"Where was Judge Fisse, when those crimes were going on? Why didn't he catch some Democrats? When the Republican organization of the city was turned over to the Republicans of the dirty combine of the House of Delegates, and they permitted control of the wards subject to its dirty business under the control of Ed Butler, then the boodle element of both parties ran the ward politics and controlled ward nominations in the interests of the gang instead of the party. You will recall that in 1897 I privately and publicly protested against that and against Julius and Adam, Kalbfell and Florshelm, giving to the Republican House of Delegates the power of selection of appointees; that they were the servants of the party and not its masters and should be so beld, accountable to the party and their constituents. The House of Delegates would not now have the city by the throat if my advice had been followed.

"Excuse was made to mee that only two appointments had been allowed to each Republican member of the House of Delegates which I said. was two too many. But the city by the throat on the garbage is sue.

"Ed Butler's control, we impt not forget was fastened on the city by President the city by the throat on the garrage arsue.

"Ed Butler's control, we mist not forget, was fastened on the city by President of the Council Walbridge's casting vote.
And further, that for that decisive vote, the Globe-Democrat threatened an independent ticket in the spring election of 1991, which eventuated in a ticket, composed of three Democrats and three Republicans, headed by Charles Nagel, in order to rebuke Walbridge and Comfort."
